

Have You Ever Denied Masturbate?

Although most people said they have denied masturbating at some point, adults are much more likely to admit it than are teens. Most 12-to-14-year-olds would deny masturbating regardless of the situation; for people between 15 and 20, it often depends on how much they trust the person asking. Many adults (and some teens) mentioned they had denied or would deny it to a girlfriend, fearing it would cause a rift in their relationship. Most teens who deny masturbating to male peers do so to avoid being the target of ridicule. Of course, all this denial only leads to an atmosphere where everyone feels they must deny it, thus propagating the masturbation taboo.
